DAY BY DAY ITINERARY

Wednesday, April 26
Fly to Morocco
Depart from home and fly to Morocco, arriving the next day.

Thursday, April 27
Casablanca / Rabat
Fly to Casablanca and arrive into Mohammed V International Airport (CMN). Meet your guide and driver outside the baggage collection area. We will stop in Casablanca, Morocco’s largest city and its business and industrial center. Casablanca has a very French feel to it, with broad avenues, squares, and buildings combining art deco and Hispano-Moresque styles. Casablanca is home to one of the modern world’s architectural wonders, the Hassan II Mosque, completed in 1993, with the world’s tallest minaret at 689 feet. More than 35,000 workers and craftsmen helped in construction and 6,000 traditional Moroccan artisans created the beautiful mosaics, stone, marble, sculpted plaster, and carved woodwork. Its massive prayer hall is partially built over the Atlantic Ocean, affording spectacular views of the seabed through its glass floors. Other city highlights include the colorful central market, the corniche along the seafront, and the old 60-room Mahkama, which was simultaneously a Muslim law court and the reception hall of the pacha. After your visit, drive through the scenic countryside to the imperial city of Rabat (approximately one hour drive time). Settle into the hotel and enjoy the rest of the afternoon at leisure. This evening, enjoy a welcome reception and dinner.
VILLA MANDARINE (D)

Friday, April 28
Rabat
After breakfast, explore the city of Rabat, one of the oldest settlements in North Africa. Recently granted UNESCO World Heritage site status, Rabat, the administrative capital of Morocco, was founded in 1146 by the Almohads as a fortress from which to launch attacks on Spain. It became the capital of the empire during the rule of Yaqub al-Mansur. After his death in 1199, the city fell into a period of decline. The arrival of Moriscos and Jews expelled from Spain in the early 17th century revitalized the city. Rabat and its neighbor Salé formed the independent Republic of Bou Regreg in 1627, a corsair republic that caused trouble for European and Muslim ships until its collapse in 1818.
Visit Hassan Tower, the remains of the first unfinished mosque of Rabat; the minaret is less than half its intended height. Continue with a visit to Oudaïa Kasbah, former stronghold of the Almoravids, with its spectacular Moorish gate. Explore the delightful craft museums and the Andalusian Garden with melodious fountains and sweet-smelling orange trees. Next, visit the Kasbah Chellah, built on ancient Roman ruins, with a necropolis constructed by the kings of Morocco in the 14th century. Continue to the Mausoleum of Mohammed V, one of the most beautiful architectural achievements in the country.
VILLA MANDARINE (B,L)
DAY BY DAY ITINERARY

Saturday, April 29  Rabat / Volubilis / Meknes / Fes
After breakfast, drive east through the Middle Atlas Mountains to the ancient Roman city of Volubilis, dating back to the third century, which was the northwest African capital of the Roman Empire. Walk through the well-preserved archaeological site of Volubilis, admiring the opulent mosaics found here as well as the city’s reconstructed triumphal arch and capitol. Volubilis was named a UNESCO World Heritage site in 1997. Continue to Meknes, another one of Morocco’s imperial cities. Meknes was the 18th-century seat of Sultan Moulay Ismail during the reigns of Louis XIV of France and James II of England. Visit the monumental Bab el-Mansour and the Mausoleum of Moulay Ismail. Take in el-Hedim Square, which separates the medina from the imperial city. Stop at a winery for lunch. Continue to Fes, Morocco’s first imperial city.
RIAD MAISON BLEUE (B,L,D)

Sunday, April 30  Fes
Fes was founded in the early ninth century and is considered the most complete medieval city in the Arab world. Fes el Bali, Fes’s old walled city, has been designated a UNESCO World Heritage site and is believed to be the largest car-free urban zone in the world. Fes reached its height in the 13th and 14th centuries under the Merinids, when it replaced Marrakech as the capital of the kingdom. The city is considered to be the cultural and spiritual center of Morocco. Artisan workshops in the medina remain very active, with trades such as metal and leather working, ceramics, silk, tapestries, and sculpting still being practiced. Tour Fes el Bali, visiting the city’s medina, palaces, mosques, and madrasas (Koranic schools). Fes’s vibrancy is palpable in its incredible medina, a maze of narrow streets and crowded bazaars that buzz with activity. Visit Fes el Jedid, or New Fes, built in the 13th century along with the Royal Palace and city wall. Wide and elegant avenues are lined with cafés and restaurants. Visit the University of Al-Karaouine, believed to be the world’s oldest continually operating degree-granting university in the world. See the theological college of Medersa Bou Inania, marked by its green-tiled roof, a prime example of Merinid architecture, which dates to 1350. Explore the old Jewish quarter, the Mellah, an area rich with unique architecture including wrought iron decorated windows and carved wood balconies. This evening, enjoy a traditional Sufi dinner.

DAY BY DAY ITINERARY

Monday, May 1 Fes / Midelt / Erfoud
After breakfast, travel south to Erfoud, one of Morocco’s largest oases. Drive through fertile valleys and into the cedar forests and beautiful lakes of the Middle Atlas Mountains Pass. Continue through Ifrane, a charming European-looking ski resort, and Azrou, a typical Berber town with flat-roofed earthen houses. Continue across the Pass of the She-Camel and through the Tunnel of the Legionnaires looking out over the Ziz River valley to Errachidia.
AUBERGE CAFÉ DU SUD (B,L,D)

Tuesday, May 2 Erfoud / Merzouga
After breakfast, transfer by 4x4 Dakar Rally tour vehicles to the dunes of Erg Chebbi, possibly the largest dunes in the Sahara Desert. The dunes are a strikingly strange natural formation in the midst of a flat and desolate landscape. En route, study the desert ecosystem. The area is a zone of great geological, paleontological, and mineralogical interest due to prehistoric engravings, as well as typical Moroccan south flora and fauna. Visit the Sijilmassa and Rissani Village, home to a great number of ksars, or fortified villages, where you often find a palace. Explore Ksar El Fida and its local museum. Visit Ksar Oulad Abdelhalim and the remains of the 18th-century palace, which is still inhabited by one of the descendants of the prince. Explore the traditional souks of Rissani. Meet with nomads and enjoy mint tea with them. Eat lunch at a beautiful oasis. In the late afternoon, enjoy a short camel trek to witness the sunset from over the desert dunes. Continue to your private desert camp. Settle in, enjoying the changing colors as the sun slips behind the dunes.
MERZOUGA TENTED CAMP (B,L,D)

Wednesday, May 3 Merzouga / Tinghir / Todra Gorge / Ouarzazate
Drive through a lunar-like landscape to Tinghir, one of the largest and most beautiful oases in Morocco. Visit the Mellah Jewish quarter. Continue to nearby Todra Gorge and enjoy mint tea on a terrace looking out at canyon walls rising 1,200 feet on either side. Continue towards Ouarzazate along the southern flank of the High Atlas Mountains. En route, stop in the Dades Valley at the oasis Kaalat M’Gouna, famous for its Persian roses and the manufacture of rose water perfume essences. Continue through this harsh valley, hemmed in by the High Atlas and Anti-Atlas Mountains, dotted with decorated kasbahs of the local Berber people. Arrive this evening in Ouarzazate, which has become a major cultural center and base for the many films shot in this area.

DAY BY DAY ITINERARY

Thursday, May 4  Ouarzazate / Aït Benhaddou / Marrakech
Begin the day with a tour of Ouarzazate. Visit Kasbah Taourirt, the former capital of the Glaoui and one of the most important kasbahs in the region. Have a traditional mint tea overlooking a panoramic view of Ouarzazate Valley. Explore the UNESCO-restored Kasbah Aït Benhaddou, arguably Morocco’s most impressive village and virtually unchanged since the Middle Ages. The village is an example of how Morocco is taking care of its heritage, honoring the past while at the same time creating a dynamic future. Continue on to Marrakech via North Africa’s highest passage, the Tizi n’ Tichka mountain pass linking the Sahara Desert and the great Marrakech Plains. Arrive at the hotel and settle in before dinner tonight.

Friday, May 5  Marrakech
After breakfast, explore Marrakech, the “Pearl of the South.” Centuries old and wrapped in mystery, Marrakech was founded in 1062 on the crossroads of ancient caravan routes. At its height, Marrakech was the capital of the Almoravid empire, which stretched as far as Senegal, most of Spain, and Algiers. In 1147, the Almohads sacked the city and destroyed many of their predecessors’ palaces and mosques. The Koutoubia Mosque, considered a symbol of Marrakech, dates from this period. The Koutoubia Minaret served as model for the Giralda in Seville and the unfinished Hassan Tower in Rabat. Stop at the late 16th-century Saadian Tombs, resting place of the Saadian royal family. The site comprises more than 100 graves in three mausoleums whose decoration exemplifies Islamic architecture with floral motifs, calligraphy, zellij, Carrara marble, and finely worked wood and stucco. Visit the lavishly decorated Bahia Palace, built in the late 19th century and noted for its Moorish-Andalusian architecture. Explore the Mellah or Jewish quarter, which became home to a thriving community of native and Spanish Jews, famed for their rabbinical schools and scholars. Visit the Majorelle Garden with its Moorish-style villa, now a Berber culture museum, and 12 acres of garden. This afternoon, discover the Medersa Ben Youssef, founded in the 14th century and famed for its geometric patterns of decoration. Visit the Museum of Marrakech, housed in the Dar Menebhi Palace, an example of classical Andalusian architecture with fountains in the central courtyard, traditional seating areas, a hammam, and intricate tilework and carvings. The museum’s large atrium contains a large ceiling piece consisting of metal plates decorated with fine geometric and epigraphic cuttings. Explore the hidden sides of Marrakech including the oldest building in the city, artisan quarters, and colorful souks. Visit the visual extravaganza of Marrakech’s Djemaa el-Fna, the city’s chaotic main square. Storytellers, fire-eaters, snake charmers, acrobats, jugglers, and many other performers abound in this lively square.
