Echoes of the Past: Remembering the Civil War
A Voyage between Richmond and Savannah
Aboard the 138-Guest Yorktown
May 5 – 15, 2013
With Amanda Claybaugh, professor of English at Harvard University
HARVARD STUDY LEADER

Amanda Claybaugh is a professor of English at Harvard University, where she teaches American and British novels from the beginning of the nineteenth century to the present day. Her scholarship focuses on the relationship between literature and history. Her first book, The Novel of Purpose (2007), explored how novelists responded to nineteenth-century reform movements such as abolitionism and temperance reform, and her new project considers the influence of the federal government on the development of regional literature. Professor Claybaugh is particularly interested in the Civil War. She team-teaches a course on the Civil War for the general education curriculum at Harvard, and she is currently writing a book for a general audience entitled The Years of Jubilee, about the South Carolina Sea Islands during the Civil War and Reconstruction. She is very much looking forward to returning to Beaufort.

ADDITIONAL LECTURER

After 23 years as a journalist, Bruce Chadwick entered Rutgers University and earned a doctorate in American history. He teaches at New Jersey City University and lectures at Rutgers. Professor Chadwick’s dual biography, Two American Presidents: Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis, 1861-1865, was a finalist for the Lincoln Prize.
In 2011, the United States began a four-year commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the Civil War, the epic conflict that gave America, as Abraham Lincoln put it, “a new birth of freedom.” With respect to this historic conflict, the Harvard Alumni Association invites you to experience a one-of-a-kind itinerary to some of the cities and battlefields that still resonate with students of the Civil War today.

Civil War voyages are rare, and to make this exciting experience even more exceptional we have selected some of the most significant sites of the Confederacy. When you cruise into Savannah, you will see that it is even lovelier today than in 1864, when it was spared the destruction waged on other areas during General Sherman’s “March to the Sea.” In Beaufort, you’ll visit some of the city’s magnificent antebellum mansions, once the homes of wealthy cotton planters. You’ll also explore the battlefield at Petersburg, site of a 10-month-long siege, and discover the Confederate landmarks of Richmond including Jefferson Davis’ residence and Tredegar Ironworks.

In addition to the local guides you will encounter along the way, joining you on this voyage will be two distinguished historians. Amanda Claybaugh is a professor of English literature at Harvard University who team-teaches a course on the Civil War for Harvard’s general education curriculum. Bruce Chadwick is a professor of history at New Jersey City University and will talk about the broad sweep of the Civil War and the ways in which the history of the war has been rewritten and exploited by Hollywood.

SCHEDULE BY DAY

SUNDAY, MAY 5, 2013
RICHMOND, Virginia | EMBARK
Fly to Richmond to embark Yorktown.
Overnight aboard ship. (D)

MONDAY, MAY 6
RICHMOND | PETERSBURG | RICHMOND
Tour Richmond, the affluent city that became the Confederate capital on May 29, 1861. Richmond witnessed two major war campaigns, the first in 1862, the other in 1864. Explore the city’s major sites, including the Museum and White House of the Confederacy, and the old Tredegar Ironworks, which houses the visitor’s center for the Richmond National Battlefield Park. Then drive to nearby Petersburg, the site of the last major battle of the Civil War. Visit the Siege Museum, housed in the elegant Exchange Building (ca. 1839), and the Petersburg National Battlefield, which preserves and protects Petersburg’s Civil War legacy. (B, L, D)

TUESDAY, MAY 7
NEWPORT NEWS | FORT MONROE
Sail to Newport News, which lies in the center of Virginia’s historic Hampton Roads. Momentous events took place in these waters during the Civil War. In June 1861, the Union established the Atlantic Blockading Squadron, operating out of Hampton. In March 1862, the USS Monitor battled the CSS Virginia, the first battle between Ironclads. On February 3, 1865, the Hampton Roads Peace Conference between President Lincoln, Secretary of State Seward, and a Confederate delegation took place aboard the Union ship River Queen, and the Confederates rejected Lincoln’s terms for peace. During our stay, we will offer a choice of excursions that will include several sites related to the Civil War, including Fort Monroe, as well as other attractions of the region such as Norfolk’s Hermitage Museum and Gardens. (B, L, D)

WEDNESDAY, MAY 8
CRUISING IN THE INTRACOASTAL WATERWAY
Relax aboard and attend lectures as Yorktown navigates the Intracoastal Waterway en route to Morehead City. (B, L, D)

THURSDAY, MAY 9
MOREHEAD CITY AND NEW BERN, NORTH CAROLINA
Built in the mid-19th century as the terminus of the North Carolina Railroad, Morehead City was home to large encampments by both armies during the Civil War. Visit the History Place, with its exhibits relating to the Civil War, as well as Fort Macon, a Confederate garrison for a period during the war. Alternately, drive to historic New Bern (settled in 1710), which was captured early in the Civil War by Union forces. Despite repeated Confederate attempts to retake the city, New Bern remained in Union hands until the end of the war. The jewel among New Bern’s sites is Tryon Palace and its elegant gardens, which you will visit. (B, L, D)

FRIDAY, MAY 10
WILMINGTON AND FORT FISHER
Founded in 1739, Wilmington flourished on maritime trade made possible by its deep water port. By 1860, Wilmington was North Carolina’s largest city. During the Civil War, the 161-mile Wilmington and Weldon Railroad and the city port were of vital importance to the South, and Wilmington’s fall to the Union in January 1865 was a severe blow to the Confederacy. Tour Wilmington’s historic district, a veritable open-air museum of 19th-century architecture. Then drive to Fort Fisher, a Confederate stronghold that fell to the Union in January 1865 after a massive assault by a force of 9,000 men and 56 ships. (B, L, D)

SATURDAY, MAY 11 & SUNDAY, MAY 12
CHARLESTON, South Carolina
Arrive today in Charleston, one of the East Coast’s loveliest cities. A prosperous, cosmopolitan seaport from colonial times, it was here in Charleston’s harbor that Confederate troops first fired upon Fort Sumter, thus starting the Civil War. Tour Charleston’s extensive historic district.

FOR DETAILED ITINERARIES VISIT ALUMNI.HARVARD.EDU/HAA/TRAVEL
including the Heyward-Washington House, an 18th-century structure which features a separate kitchen house and enchanting formal garden. In the afternoon, drive to Middleton Place Plantation, a carefully preserved 18th-century plantation that is a National Historic Landmark. Situated on the Ashley River, the property includes the House Museum, built in 1755 as the gentlemen’s guest quarters, and 65 acres of magnificent gardens, or take the ferry to Fort Sumter to see the site where the Civil War began. (B, L, D)

BEAUFORT
South Carolina’s Lowcountry flourished on the cotton trade, making Beaufort one of the wealthiest cities in the country after Independence. The “Golden Age” of cotton later came to a standstill as the area became a hotbed of secession. In fact, the first Ordinance of Secession was drawn up in Beaufort’s Milton Maxey House. In April 1862, seven months after the start of the Civil War, a large Union fleet sailed into Port Royal Sound, occupying Beaufort for the duration of the war. Tour elegant Beaufort, with its magnificent antebellum homes and shady lanes. (B, L, D)

TUESDAY, MAY 14
SAVANNAH, Georgia
Georgia’s oldest city, Savannah was founded by James Oglethorpe in 1733 on a bluff overlooking the Savannah River. In December 1864, the city fell to General Sherman’s troops but was spared the destruction waged on other areas of Georgia during “Sherman’s March to the Sea.” Today the fine avenues and open spaces that Oglethorpe planned form the cornerstone of the three-square-mile historic district, which features over 1,000 Federal and Regency buildings and 21 verdant squares brimming with azaleas, gardenias, giant oaks, and other lush vegetation. Explore the renowned Historic District, the largest in the country, and also enjoy time at leisure to explore the lovely streets and squares. Overnight aboard ship. (B, L, D)

WEDNESDAY, MAY 15
